The Garfield Benedictus of 1933

PUBLISHED BY THE SENIOR CLASS
GARFIELD HIGH SCHOOL

BECAUSE we fully realize that our high school days will be among our favorite reminiscences, we, the Class of 1933, publish this annual with the purpose of portraying the events of our senior year in such a vivid and interesting manner that their recollection will bring supreme satisfaction and enjoyment.

DEDICATION

IN appreciation and gratitude for her unceasing effort and watchful guidance in advancing the interests of our class, we, the seniors of 1933, dedicate this Benedictus to our class advisor, Miss Inez Kelly.

CLASSES

SENIOR CLASS

MOST of the graduating class entered Garfield in the fall of 1929, and for the first two weeks wandered about the halls, getting into the wrong classes, forgetting where our next class was, and making a general nuisance of ourselves. We were not settled enough, as freshmen, to organize, but under the able leadership of Miss Schwedes, Dean of Girls, we managed to have our picture in the Benny of 1930.

At the beginning of our sophomore year we were eager for the organization. At our first meeting, which was called by Miss Schwedes, Miss Inez Kelly was chosen to lead our lively bunch in its activities. At last, on Tuesday, February 9, at our second sophomore meeting, we chose our officers. Kathleen Newton was president, with Howard Danner vice president and John Aikman secretary and treasurer. One of the big features of our sophomore year was the sophomore picnic held at Deming Park in May.

The junior class organized early in the fall semester with the election of new class officers: President, James Hughes, Vice President, Kathleen Newton, Secretary, Walter Snedeker, Treasurer, Garland Winters, Miss Inez Kelly, faculty advisor. In view of the fact that there was no "Royal Purple," four junior members were appointed to the Benedictus staff: Assistant Editor, Russell Welborn, Assistant Business Manager, Kathleen Newton, Assistant Organizations, Katherine Strang, Assistant Circulation, Paul Giffel. A "junior mixer" was given in January to get members of the class acquainted. It took place in the girls' gym, and the dancing, entertainments, games and refreshments were heartily enjoyed by all. In about the middle of the year came the time for us to choose class colors and to select class rings. After much hesitancy a beautiful gold ring was selected, and soon adorned many a fair hand in our junior class. We decided that our class colors should be "Blue and Gold." Our class activities for the year were climaxed by the banquet and prom, given for the seniors of "32" the first week in June, at Wiley Gym.

We started our senior year by electing Stuart Smith as president, Kathleen Newton, vice president, Walter Snedeker, secretary, Garland Winters, treasurer. The senior play, "Men Are Like That," was the talk of the school for weeks. For social activities we had a Christmas party, senior breakfast and dance, and the senior boatride ,and a farewell dance. Commencement activities came as a climax to a wonderful year, ending in the commencement exercises. As we seniors leave Garfield and go forth into the world, we wish to thank Miss Kelly for the guidance and assistance she has given as class advisor. We also express to the other members of the faculty our appreciation for their help and co-operation in everything we attempted.

IN TWENTY YEARS?

THE soft, sweet strains of the theme melody of a well-known orchestra are fading from the loud speaker. "The program of the Graham and Cole Cocoa Company, directed by Walt Snedeker and starring Jimmy Hughes, the popular comedy king, will be brought to you next Saturday at this same hour. This is Robert Grogan speaking for the Garvin and Jobe nation-wide network, and now good-night!"

Inside the studio of the key station, WXQZ at Chicago, on this warm May 31, 1953, familiar musical figures are hastily packing their instruments. Here are Dorothy McKinney, the pianist, John Aikman with his trap drums, Maurice Clayton and his trombone, and John Pfister and his violin. Others of Snedeker's orchestra are Ralph Williams, Pelmer Shelton, Merritt Campbell, and Russell Butts. In the corner James Mitcham, popular vocal soloist of the program, is collecting his music.

Jimmy Hughes and Walt Snedeker are preparing to leave by airplane for Evansville, where they have a theatrical engagement. "Say, Walt," says Jimmy, "do you remember twenty years ago today?"

"No-o-o-o-o-o" Walt drawls absent-mindedly, as he reaches for his violin case.

"What a memory! Why twenty years ago tonight was the night of our graduation from Garfield!"

"Why sure, so it was!" exclaims Walt while they leave the studio and enter a waiting taxi. "I wonder where all the good old class of '33 are now? Do you know of any of them?"

"Well, come to think about it, I noticed in the Chicago Herald-Star this morning that federal judge Harry D. Cash sent a gang of gasoline bootleggers and a counterfeiter's ring to the benevolent protection of Warden Robert Price at Leavenworth, Kansas. Joe Thomson, Daryl Orem, Steve Rohan, and Raymond Wood are guards at Warden Price's institution and help keep 'Gentleman Herm' Surdan, the suave head of the international blackmail ring, from escaping. The prosecuting attorney in the case was Marjorie Dever, and the defense lawyer was the notorious Evan Jones, whose wife, Laura Nelie Turnbull, is Chicago's best-dressed woman.

"Mary Hussong, the society editor of the paper, had a long article about the grand banquet held in honor of Lucas Fischer, the new president of the Chicago Board of Trade. Guests of honor included the following: Dr. Morris Strole, Mary Esther Smith, the eminent scientist, James Parks, famous tabloid editor, Lorene Jensen, and cinema-star Maxine Moss, of whom the late Jean Harlow said that Miss Moss was her only peer in the field of platinum blondes."

Here we are at the airport says Walt as the driver dashes around a corner and drives up to the hanger

"That'll be one-fifty," the driver remarks, turning his head. Both passengers gasp in astonishment

"Howard Danner, as I live! shouts Jimmy, furiously grabbing at the cabman's hand. "I ought to have recognized that reckless driving anywhere!"

The two entertainers run up the stairs to the office and demand a weather map of their route. Dorothy Vanness, the stenographer sends in to weatherman John Hoare for the forecast. Climbing into their monoplane, they zoom to the take-off

* * * * * * *

WHILE they are flying over Vigo County a general storm area is encountered. Making for the nearest trail beacon, the two men land for safety. A light is seen in a nearby building to which they hurry for shelter Upon entering they were pleased to recognize Marian Boatman who hurriedly cautions them to silence as she motions them into an adjoining room. In this room, which is stacked to the ceiling with scientific apparatus, a man is discovered bent over a strange machine. This is none other than the scientist and owner of the laboratory, Stephen Koos, who looks up and greets the strangers. His face registers no recognition at first, but gradually he breaks into a wide grin and invites his school fellows over to his workbench

"I have here an invention of mine in which you might be interested," he nonchalantly remarks after their mutual salutations are over. "I call it my 'ultimascope'! It has the power to show me today events of the past and the present Since you have recognized that this is our graduation anniversary, you might like to see what has become of our classmates. Shall I turn it on?"

"Yes, certainly eagerly reply the two visitors

"Of course, I can tell you of the ones who still live in Terre Haute. George Tuttle has expanded his paint and glass business into a corporation which manufactures a nationally-known brand. His corps of secretaries and stenographers includes Estella Smith, Katherine Strang, Hazel Kaus, Gwendolyne Hillis, and Margaret Evans. On the board of directors are Robert Guyer, Chet Brentlinger, Joe Hadley Bill Edwards, and Maxine Hornbuckle George's wife, Dorothy Laatz, has a pet Pekingese, which is named after Rosemary Thompson, the famous veterinarian.

Jack McCrory has bought a half interest in the Giffel Body Manufacturing Company from Paul Giffel, and they now specialize in scientifically designed and streamlined truck bodies

THE 1933 Benny Staff commenced operations on October 3, with a session called for the purpose of organization. Difficulties were immediately encountered in the shape of the current "depression." After several unsuccessful weeks of attempting to raise the required ninety-five percent of the seniors to subscribe, we pushed over the line with a bare sufficiency. Immediately plans for the book were begun.

On the fifth of December, we opened the underclassmen drive with an assembly, in which the trials and tribulations of the Benny subscription drive were aptly portrayed in the form of a pantomime melodrama, the plot being read during the action. Pending the outcome of the drive, no work was done on the book.

With success crowning our subscription efforts we set about designing the annual. The faculty play, "Safety First," gave much-needed support to the assets of the Benny which were temporarily tied up by the bank moratorium. In a final rush to send the annual to the press, we concluded the work with great satisfaction. We are taking this opportunity to thank all who have co-operated with us in the publication of this book.

Garfield High School, we honor and love you
To your colors we'll always be true
In your halls we'll always remember
The purple with the red, white and blue
For your sake we'll try to bear bravely
All the troubles and cares of this life
Till finally all of our work is over
And death puts an end to our strife
Garfield High School, when of days that are gone by Memory holds but dim, broken lines
Your spirit will pass on through the ages
Defeating the passage of time

THE senior class play, "Men Are Like That," was presented November 3 and 4, 1932 Its success was due to the untiring efforts of the director, Miss Ferguson, and the conscientious work of the cast.

The plot begins when Austin Bevans, a young automobile salesman with "Ideas," inherits an exclusive girls school from his aunt. His idea of what a girl should be taught is charm so he proceeds to conduct the school to teach the girls charm. Several interesting love affairs develop between some of the girls and the young instructors whom Mr Bevans has brought to the school. Miss Curtis and Miss Hays add humor and color throughout the play Miss Curtis as the secretary of the school, who tries to think well of the girls, and Miss Hays in charge of the girls, who is loved and feared by all are responsible for many of the laughs. The climax is reached when Elise Bennett, who is president of the senior class, runs away from school after declaring her love to Austin Bevans, who does not encourage her in the least. After much excitement, Elise is safely returned to the school by Austin Bevans and the play is concluded when Austin admits his love for Elise by saying that she does have charm.

[illegible] entertained the [illegible] of the Dea Nursery with games [illegible] Thanksgiving Blue Tri gave a pound of butter for every basket that left school. Our gift to the school was the buying of books for students who were unable to do so for themselves.

The program chairman, Kathleen Newton, and her committee provided very interesting programs such as open forums, plays, tap-dancing, readings, talks, and musical programs under the supervision of Edythe Hill and Miriam Conner, music chairmen.

Martha Jean Soames, membership chairman, and her committee, planned several pleasant parties for the members.

The Body, Mind, and Spirit committee, under the direction of Lucile Haisley, is one of the worthiest groups. This group of twenty girls, by much effort, has attained the highest standards of a girl, and were awarded rings at the "Feast of the Lanterns."

THE present council, who have endeavored to include all interested in the Blue Tri are as follows:

COMMERCE CLUB

THE Garfield Business Club enjoyed a [illegible] year with Adeline Stokes as president, Madoline Philhour as vice president, Marie Marrs as secretary and treasurer, and the Misses Edna Mae Bevrel and Erma B. McWhinney as sponsors. The chairmen of the standing committees were Anne Kalb, Program; Frances Sampson, Ways and Means; Marjorie Dever, Publicity.

Interesting talks were given before the Business Club by Miss Helen [illegible], a former student of Garfield High School, and Professor Bright of the Indiana State Teachers College.

Enjoyable as well as instructive visits were made to the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, the Model Milk and Ice Cream Company, and the print shop at Indiana State Teachers College. The year was closed with a farewell party in the Garfield Gymnasium.

ART CLUB

OFFICERS

President	Carl Lacey
Vice-president	Edna Chesler
Secretary-treasurer	Frances Modesitt

ONE of our outstanding organizations is the Garfield Art Club which meets Tuesday of each week with Miss Alice B. Morris as faculty advisor. In the past year [illegible] sponsored a [illegible] the annual Art Club dance, which was held in the Garfield Terrace Gardens. A setting of flower-hung trellises was artistically arranged in the upper [illegible] of the school building. Music was furnished for the dancers by the Indiana University Campus Serenaders. The club also gave a very successful party for its members and their guests. [illegible] and dancing were enjoyed.

These various enterprises not only afforded entertainment but supplied the treasury with funds with which we hope sometime in the near future to redecorate our classroom.

HOME ECONOMICS CLUB

THE aims of the Home Economics Club are: To train active and efficient leaders; to train young women for home and community life; and to create opportunities for talent to be brought before the club. Our club motto is: Service to our community, our school, and ourselves.

The Garfield Home Economics Club started the year 1932-33 with a membership drive which was very successful. We now have sixty active members. This club meets every second and fourth Thursday of each month, one a business meeting and the other a program, one of the most interesting having been given by Mrs. Hubert on "Life in Salvador."

The social activities for the year have been a Halloween party, a Valentine party, and a May luncheon for the club members and their guests. For [illegible] we have had a Christmas dance, sold pom poms at the Thanksgiving football game, and had a spring vaudeville show. For school service we prepared a Thanksgiving dinner for the football team. As welfare work we filled two baskets with food for the needy at Thanksgiving, and have paid for the lunches of an underprivileged girl for a semester.

This school year has been a busy yet a very helpful and interesting one with Geneva Branham president and Ruth Kretz secretary.

"Several old schoolday friends are on the faculties of various local educational institutions. Betty Jones is the faculty sponsor of the Garfield Players. Edythe Hill and Ernestine Cullison are English teachers. Kenneth Bell is the most popular social studies teacher at Garfield, while Virginia Long has taken Miss Leasey's place, with Lillian Brown as assistant. Eva Mae Johns, Lucile Haisley, Meredith Johnson, and Fern Almon are trying to drive undesired knowledge into the poor Teachers College students. Karl Knipmeyer is a mathematics professor at Rose Poly

Howard DeLisle, Lee Emery, John Braman, and Jim Klimek are four of the slickest insurance salesmen that the Needham and Miller Company has.

Among the clerks are Ruth Hawkins, Irene Benton, Bernice Eder, Dorothea Engles and Pauline Dennis

Louis Collins has become the idle rich man of the town, the cause of more fractured hearts among the women than any other three men including Dr Stuart Smith, who in his growing absent-mindedness, has been caught sleeping on a bench in Central Park several times, a thing which Jane McAlpine, his wife, heartily disapproves. The newspaper which he was using as a blanket the last time, contained an article on the outcome of the national election last fall, in which the new president defeated Russell Welborn the senator of the People's Party from the state of New York The senator is back at his old job in the law firm of Swander, Tryon, Wallace, and Welborn. Robert Swander and Ernie Tryon go in for a little vaudeville work on the side.

Albert Campbell is head research chemist for the Westinghouse Company, with Dorothy Castle and Irma Anderson as his assistants. Garland Winters was recently suspended as treasurer of the company because of irregularities in the accounts every effort is being made to clear him of the charges, which are reputed to have been framed

It reveals the fact that Don Ewinger is making his first voyage as its commander, with Carl Royse as first mate. Oh, yes, there are James Lane and John McCart, who seem to be cabin boys Several Garfield students are among the passengers Geneva Branham Wilbur Williams, the new diplomat to France, and Edward Wodicka, John Millar, and Jones Bachstein, who together are about to complete an important invention on which they have been working. In Paris Thelma McAninch has received high honors for a painting she has just completed Sara Lou Brentlinger has started an old ladies home in northern Italy. She has with her a troop of faithful followers composed of Ruth Conely, Bertha Jones, Eleanor Mann, Eleanor Stillwell, and Harold Burget who acts as janitor, carpenter, and general handy-man. Albert Wiley enlisted in the latest war in Turkey and hasn't been heard of for some time. We hope he will survive the struggle. Unable to keep out of the action Marian Ray Barbara Wilson and Ruth Meyer have enlisted as Red Cross nurses.

Suddenly there came a blinding flash and then darkness. "Well, that's some machine, Steve," Walt says, rising from his chair. "Surely that's not all of our class, though?"

"No, it's not quite all. I admit my invention isn't perfected yet. I'm still working on it."

"This much of an idea of what has happened to our classmates has aroused my curiosity. I won't be satisfied until I know what's become of all of them," Jim cuts in. "I insist your machine's no good."

"It is very hard to keep track of people who are always moving from place to place," Steve replies, a little stiffly. "Such is the case with the rest of the members of our class. Mary Burris is a well-known lecturer. Norma Moffett and Jewell Chaney are home economics supervisors and travel considerably. If you would read your papers carefully you would notice that Mary L. Prast and Frances Modesitt, noted explorers, have just return from Africa where they went to search for Florence Koenig, Marie Marrs, and Roslyn Meadows, who were lost there last fall. Several girls who had been their classmates participated in the hunt: Mary Sullivan, Jane Parker, who are missionaries in South Africa, Grace Richardson, Frances Muehler, Jean Potts, Marcella Phelps, and Marian Ray."

"That's O. K.," Jim says. "I take it all back." He glances at his watch. "Heavens, Walt! Do you know what time it is? We've got to run!"

They hurriedly shake hands with Steve and dash to their plane.

A [illegible] pass was intercepted which resulted [illegible] touchdown for Dunbar. In [illegible] minutes the boys made a desperate effort to score. Grant threw passes to McWilliams and Hardesty for substantial gains.

FOURTH GAME

ATTICA, Night. The boys [illegible] unusual power in this game by upsetting the highly touted Attica [illegible] Grant started the fireworks with a plunge over the goal line from the five yard stripe. This was followed [illegible] succession by two more touchdowns by "Little Joe" Thompson and Evan Jones. Jones added the extra point by a placement kick. Attica threatened several times in the second half, but the reserves who played the greater part of the period were able to check their scoring drives. The game was featured by the defensive play of Co-Captains Grant and Burke.

FIFTH GAME

CASEY—Score 0-0, Tie. Casey threatened early in the first quarter but our boys tightened their defenses and stopped the drive in the shadow of the goal posts.

The two teams then battled on fairly even terms throughout the remainder of the game. The Eagles threatened several times during the last half but lacked the final scoring power. This game was featured by the strong defensive play of both teams. "General" Andy Grant, who appeared headed for a position on the mythical "All-Valley" eleven, was the key-man in the Eagles' defense.

SIXTH GAME

ROBINSON "Maroons"—Score 12-0 in favor of Garfield. This game featured the second half of a double header played at Tech field. The first game was a scoreless tie between Gerstmeyer and Martinsville High.

Ralph "Rabbit" Hardesty, one of the smallest fullbacks Garfield has known, scored the first touchdown for the Eagles. Jones tried a placement kick for the extra point, but the ball went wide. In the final quarter Ray "Secret Passion" Flint intercepted a Maroon pass and ran 46 yards for the second score of the game. Collins' attempt to convert was unsuccessful. Robinson is one of our oldest rivals.

SEVENTH GAME

REITZ MEMORIAL at Evansville. Score 6-13 in favor of Memorial. The boys were excused from classes at 11:30 o'clock in order to make the long trip to Evansville.

The game was played in ankle-deep mud, and snow fell throughout the entire period. Evan Jones, quarterback and one of the best blockers on the squad, was injured. As a result, he was out for the rest of the season. Also Louis Collins was hurt in this game, having received an injury to his right arm.

EIGHTH GAME

WILEY—Score 6-0 in favor of Garfield. The crowd at this, the last game, was estimated at over 6,000. The A. A. A. and the N. N. N. were out full strength and kept up a steady outburst of yelling. Our boys went into the game under the handicap of playing in borrowed equipment. Vandals broke into the shower room

WRESTLING

WITH little more than three weeks training, the boys met the experienced Wiley wrestling team at the Y. M. C. A.

O'Hern was the only winner from Garfield, winning on a fall from Evans of Wiley. Streaker and Asbury lost on close decisions.

Later the boys met Wiley again at Wiley Gym and showed much better form. The winners from Garfield in this match were Asbury, double overtime decision; Edwards, forfeiture. Wiley was forced to forfeit this bout because they had no wrestler in Edwards' weight. However Edwards met a boy who was nine pounds heavier than he and won by a decision. O'Hern again defeated Evans of Wiley, this time by a decision.

Captain Ike O'Hern

To wind up the wrestling activities of the year, the championship of the school was decided in a match between O'Hern and Asbury, O'Hern winning by a fa

Anyone who does not marry is a fool. Consider the picture: My wife and I before the fire. She is sitting curled on the sofa like a dear little kitten. The dim firelight is reflected in the ripples in her hair. She is smiling and her eyes are half-closed and sparkling. How wonderful she is! We say nothing, are too happy for words. Here is heaven on earth.

Anyone who marries is a fool. Consider the picture: My wife and I before the fire (coal $10 a ton). She is sitting curled on the sofa like a cat (which she is). The dim firelight shows clearly that most of her hair is false. She is frowning, and her eyes are half-closed and threatening. How tiresome she is! We say nothing, there is nothing to say. Ain't married life awful?

George Tuttle (to couple in car after smash-up)   Why don't you put out your arm when you take a corner?

Morris Strole   What do you think I am, an octopus?

Julia Whitaker   I just had a dream about my ideal man.

Karl Knipmeyer   And what was I doing?

Love and porous plaster, son,
Are very much alike.
It's simple getting into one,
But getting out—Goodnight!

Mr. Pike (passing out yellow paper): What was that noise?

Luke Fischer   Oh, that was my spirit falling when I saw the test paper.

Jane McAlpine   I wonder what would happen if we ever agreed on anything.

Stuart Smith   I'd be wrong.

Red, have you taken a shower-bath?

Gosh, no, is one gone?

Mr. Pike (on an examination): What industry is accredited with being the first in the United States? Give history and details of the industry.

Kate Newton (after much thought): Do you mean you want us to give the details of the history of the glass industry?

Fred Needham (in chemistry class): If you get mercury on your ring, it will dissolve it.

Student Teacher: Well I got some mercury on my ring once and it rubbed off without hurting it.

Fred: That proves it isn't gold.

Student Teacher: Well, it has enough gold in it to make it yellow.

Mr. Ewers: What is steam?
Bob Grogan: Water in a high state of perspiration.

Mr. Pike: What is a vacuum?
Kate Newton: I don't remember, but I've got it in my head.

"Isn't Virginia's new gown a perfect song?"
"Yes, sweet and low."

Mr. Hylton: And now we get x equals zero.
Jim Hughes: Oh, gee, all that work for nothing!

Diploma: A skin you love to touch.

Teacher: What student was so rude as to laugh out loud?
Freshman: I laughed up my sleeve, but there's a hole in my elbow.

Miss Duncan (in Music appreciation class): How many want to go to heaven?
All hands were raised but John Aikman's.
Miss D.: Why, John, don't you want to go to heaven?
John (disgustedly): Naw, not if this gang's going.
